Thank You Mr. Murray

From the day we came to the old high school, wondering and apprehensive sophomores, through the last busy moments of our senior year at a new building, you have guided and helped us countless times. Those of us fortunate enough to have you for geometry know you as an excellent teacher, all of us know you as a efficient administrator. First as our Vice-Principal, and now as our Principal and Class Advisor, your firm discipline, sense of humor, and complete fairness have won you our respect and admiration. It is with thanks for the past years, and very best wishes for those in the future that we, The Class of 1964, gratefully dedicate our Green Years to you.

Class of 1964
Abington High School
Abington, Massachusetts

Dear Seniors:

The Class of 1964, the largest in the history of the high school, goes forward to Commencement Day! Remember the moment when it will be yours to undertake something new, something challenging. You may be going to college, to youth and enter young adulthood; you may go to a military school or technical school; the Armed Forces will call. The air will be filled with the roar of the future; it will be a more brilliant world, a more beautiful one.

The friends of the school will be with you in whatever way you wish. The school will be with you in whatever way you wish. The school will be with you in whatever way you wish.

John F. Brown

Hanging 'Round A.H.S.

"Who said we didn't have happy physics classes?"

"And after I stretched out my lower lip, I decided to pierce my ears . . ."

"Is this low enough, Miss Crooks?"

"Honest, Mr. Murray, I didn't do it!"

"You wait 'til you get to college!"

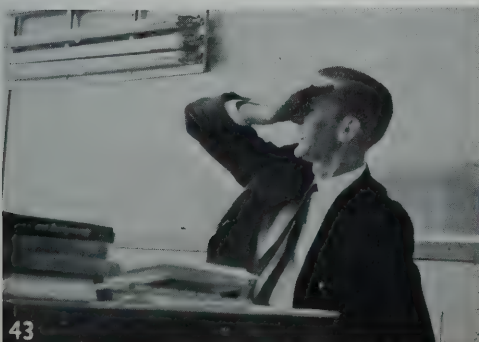

"Hey, Steve, did you say something about a new smoking rule?"

"Now, kiddies, today in Romper Room we'll play . . ."

"Gee, Mrs. Rosen, it'll only take a second . . ."

"Oh, no! Rose Connelly with eskimo pie on her face!"

"John Smith, you're getting to be a severe disciplinary problem."

Class

We all remember our freshman year with a certain nostalgia—those secure days spent behind the bars of obedience and authority at Abington Junior High Military Academy. We elected as class officers; Greg Pike, President, Donald Loud, Vice-President, Sandy Aberle, Secretary, and Heather MacPhail, Treasurer, lead us in such stalwart military campaigns as flag selling, stale candy peddling, and crummy cake sales.

Do you remember:

- Mr. Rourke's "Happy Fizzies" Party?
- The gummy, two-ton spitballs drooling from the ceiling?
- The outdoor Memorial Day Assembly with Greg Pike's dog 'Chesley' doing his best to beautify the shrubbery, as dogs will do?
- Our Variety Show, sporting such keen talent as Richard Gauley's square-dancers and John Souza's cheerleaders?
- Mrs. Lankhorst's campaign to wipe our noses?
- The bells the girls wore at Christmas time which drove the faculty even closer to insanity?
- Our dread of "upperclassmen and scissors" in the yesteryears when hazing was not a capital offense?
- And last, but not least—our regal, greasy, fried chicken dinner, and the segregated boy-hates-girl dance that followed?

Thus, we were honorably discharged with full military honors from AJHMA, ever so mature, and ever so frightened to face the dreaded senior high school.

In our sophomore year, as we "wormed our way out of the woodwork" to face the awesome upperclassmen, we elected Jerry von Freymann, President; Ken Dahl, Vice-President; Susan Morgan, Secretary; and Pauline Smarsh, Treasurer.

That year do you remember:

- As the last class to be legally hazed, our boys sported short hair cuts and big gaudy ties?
- Starting off the year right with a new dance—the twist?
- The rules banning sneakers at school dances (but rules have been known to be broken, haven't they, girls?)
- Mr. Hartwell and Mr. Comeau, who made their debut at A.H.S. with us?
- Our first appearance on Boston Ballroom, when the boys' attentions were focused on singer Ann Margaret?
- Mrs. Trask's enthusiastic English classes?
- Donnie Loud, Bill Orcutt, and Carlo Villa, our really big contributions to the football team?
- Our Sophomore Hop when Peter Trenouth treated us to some monologues?
- Mr. Comeau's raw clams, multiplying mice, and (who could forget?) our 52 variety flower collections? (By the way, how do you suppose that mouse found its way into Mrs. Rosen's desk?)
- The trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, when half the students got lost trying to find Howard Johnson's, and the Museum guards nearly had heart attacks every time someone careened around a corner and almost knocked over precious statues?
- The final fling of the year with our class outing at Morton's Park?

In our junior year we no longer feared the upperclassmen and their scissors, as a matter of fact, we did a little cutting of our own. President Ken Dahl, Vice-President Al Dessertine, Secretary

History

Carla Wesala, and Treasurer Kay Rutledge were elected guinea pigs to lead us in our last and best year at the old high school.

Do you remember:

- The 1962-63 Class C Co-Champs football team, made up mostly of junior boys?
- The nasty poems written on the tables in the girls' cafeteria, which took one teacher and three boxes of sandpaper to erase?
- The musical and the three one-act plays, that our class all but controlled, and which brought a little bit of Broadway, a little bit of Hollywood, and a lot of ham to our sheltered town?
- The mad, last-minute Prom decorating?
- When our President suddenly changed the theme from Moon River to London Bridge is Falling Down by falling off the bridge?
- The punch at the prom that looked more like toothpaste than anything else?
- Ken Dahl's breakfast party when everyone convinced his mother that the boys were staggering because they were tired?
- Those final hectic days at AHS, when a few teachers had to run for their lives to escape being tied up along with the books?

At long last we gained the coveted position of senior class in a brand new building. To lead us through this last glorious, helter-skelter year, we elected Jerry von Freymann, President, Peter Zagarella, Vice-President, Carla Wesala, Secretary, and Pauline Smarsh, Treasurer.

Do you remember:

- The first wild days in the new building? (where's room 309?)
- The big change from Gravy Train to Gaine's Burgers?
- All those (ridiculous!) restrictions on the time-honored practice of hazing?
- The unforgettable Plymouth-Carver game and that sloshy tie with Rockland that was really "all wet."?
- The bouncy introduction of the trampoline in gym?
- Mr. Myers, our new fearless leader, and his bowties?
- The post-dance snacks at the Little New Yorker?
- The Monkey?
- The traditional senior parties?
- The Halloween egg parties? (how come the girls chickened out?)
- The second (no less) undefeated girls' field hockey team?
- Mrs. Lee's two's in conduct?
- Mr. Divoll's anti-Eskimo protest, complete with flag, speeches, and battle cry, Down with Eskimos!
- The pre-game "green and white" days?
- The senior girls' jam sessions, prompted by the infamous underclass girls—subject: stamp out underclassmen?
- The epidemic of crutches and casts that started last November?
- The sexy senior boys at their rally that made the real cheerleaders eat their hearts out?
- Our senior class play, Father of the Bride,—the best A.H.S. has ever seen?

Of course all of us remember these, and many more things about our high school days. This history is but a brief survey of a few of the many memories we have of our Green Years.

Class

Pete: Sharon Bruce! I'd recognize you anywhere. You haven't changed a bit in ten years. How are you?

Sharon: Why Pete Trenouth! I didn't expect to see you here. I thought you were working on a new movie.

Pete: Well, actually I am, but I couldn't miss the tenth reunion of the class of '64. By the way, did you happen to see my last picture, The Incredible Ugly Man Goes Hawaiian, co-starring Alice Corcoran?

Sharon: Yes, it was tremendous. You got your first Oscar for that one, didn't you?

Pete: As a matter of fact—Yes. I thought it was good too.

Sharon: Whose idea was it to hold the reunion here at the Alamo?

Pete: Oh, didn't you know, Lee Bombardier and Jerry von Freymann are the co-owners of the Alamo now, and they volunteered their Banquet Room. There they are now, welcoming some late arrivals.

Sharon: Can you recognize everyone?

Pete: Well, it's hard to tell. Some of the kids have changed, but others still look the same.

Sharon: Now, there are some girls I know—Margaret Baglio, Susan Porter, Judy Cummings, and Wanda Cook! I heard that they are working as Miss Clairol agents; with that red hair no wonder.

Pete: Our class has certainly spread out into many fields since we graduated.

Sharon: I'll say. John Gorman is Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and Al Dessertine and Clint Gurney are farmers.

Pete: Abington High School graduates have really taken over two internationally known magazines.

Sharon: What do you mean?

Pete: Jim Hanson and Bruce Nickerson are Art Editors of Mad. Guess who is the new Alfred E. Neuman brain-child—Rich Hamilton!

Sharon: Which is the other?

Pete: Playboy, what else? Charlie Collins is the Editor-in-Chief and Bob Keith is the publisher. Lately Ed Zakrzewski and John Souza, photography editors, have been working closely with their star model, Sharon Case.

Sharon: Have you read the number one best seller yet, Pete? It was written by two former classmates. It is called, At Home in the Congo, by Steve Furse and Charlotte "Banana" Pihl. Ellen Wight did the illustrations.

Pete: No, but I just finished the book by Howard Cullinan and Bill Hockney: What I Taught Malzone About Baseball.

Sharon: I was surprised to learn that we have two alumni with Ph.D's. Rose Connelly is the first airline stewardess to have her doctorate. Eddie Kelliher was the first member of the "Wall Gang" to earn more than thirty dollars a week.

Pete: Lee and Jerry did a nice job of fixing up the Alamo for the reunion and banquet. Hey, is that Eddie Hoyle arm wrestling with Joyce Jackson over there? Well, chalk another one up for Joyce.

Sharon: Remember those ridiculous and hectic yearbook meetings at Susan Coughlin's house? We never did get the 1964 Green Years finished for graduation, and Ken Dahl and Ellen Feeney spent the last ten years getting it done. I think that they're planning to pass out the yearbooks after the banquet.

Pete: With a little bit of luck! There is John Smith, owner of Seagram's Seven, talking with his best customer, Greg Pike. I wonder how Greg feels? He doesn't look too "good."

Sharon: Look who just came in! Marie "Polio Legs" Clarey is in a wheel chair and Judy Leach is on crutches. I guess she broke her leg skiing in the Olympics last winter.

Pete: Am I seeing double or what?

Sharon: Probably you're looking at the Howland twins.

Pete: What are Pat and Judy doing now, anyway?

Sharon: They are working as bookends in the Boston Public Library. Who is that happy looking creature sulking in the corner?

Pete: That's Richie Phelps, the world's great pessimist. Actually he's listening to Al Lemay, who is reviewing The Catcher in the Rye, in his own words,

Sharon: Did you know that Terry Travers, Linda Travers, Jane Thistle, and Cheryl Carmichael are Rockettes at the Radio City Music Hall in New York City?

Pete: I didn't realize that. By the way, what are you doing now, Sharon?

Sharon: I'm working with a number of other nurses, Donna Dombrowski, Terry Caplice, Polly Smarsh, Sue Coughlin, Linda Bradford, Lucille Masterson and Linda Miller. We're doing research on Ralph Hamlin for a cancer cure. We've certainly tackled a big job.

Pete: Good luck to you! I'll bet you didn't know that our class has a few representatives in the Casa Nostra—Bobby Moore and Fred Miller.

Sharon: Yes, I noticed that in the paper last night. We were fortunate—Gail Kelliher and Dennis Cifelli will be here through the courtesy of San Quentin. At the last moment the warden let them come—with an armed guard, of course.

Pete: They were always pretty mischievous. There seems to be a lot of commotion by the banquet table. Lorraine Kelleher, Eleanor Mack, Joyce Rowan, Judy McGowan, Dottie Panepinto, and Nancy Sabin are throwing food around. I guess their eating habits haven't changed since high school.

Sharon: It looks as if Jeannie Hooker and Lee Carmichael are fighting again. I wonder if they will ever get along like normal people.

Pete: I can see billboard letterer George McNeil and his paintbrush, Howie Gavin. I think they're discussing the fact that Rodney Ord, Charles Mignault, Juanita Mathieson, and Charles Parsons will be a little late because they're still taking driving lessons from Mr. Gervais. What are John Salverio and Harold Hyland doing now?

Prophecy

Sharon: Well, they enjoyed moving furniture so much in the senior class play they joined a furniture movers' union. There's Richard Janhola, who's still in the high school band and is going to provide entertainment later on, along with the new "Kingston Trio," Jaci Meehl, Jean Zeoli, and Pat Moore. An instrumental group including Ed Dart, Steve Holt, and John King, under the direction of the Boston Symphony Conductor, Ken Smith, will also play.

Pete: Last week Time magazine did a special feature on the NAACP. Jackie Murphy and Brian Eldridge were on the cover. In that same issue Bill Gannon's Pulitzer Prize winner novel, Gunga Din, was reviewed.

Sharon: I thought I recognized those boys on the cover, but I wasn't sure. A lot of the kids have become actors for television commercials.

Pete: I noticed that, too. Bruce Orlosky is doing the Ban deodorant ads, the new Mr. Clean is Alan Franzen, and John Zakrzewski is still wearing that greasy kid's stuff and it still doesn't keep his hair in place.

Sharon: Many of our former classmates have entered the world of fashion. Phil Mahony models toupees; Dick Fucillo sold his famous sweater collection to Carla Wesala and JoAnn Wilmot, who are co-editors of Vogue; and Joan Johanson is the head hair stylist at Mr. Kenneth's salon in New York. Carol Lewis, Gail Williams, Connie Anderson, Dawn Barrows, and Lillian Miller are representatives of the Maybelline Corporation.

Pete: Speaking of fashions, there's Miss America 1974, Brenda Orlosky, who's talking to Miss South Carolina, Lynn Oliver, and her press secretary, Marion Kelly. It looks like Kevin "Lady Killer" Leary, who just became Liz Taylor's tenth, has something very important to say to them.

Sharon: Who's that laughing so hard at one of Bobby French's, alias Arnonld Stang, jokes?

Pete: Could it be? It must be Willie Benoit, cracking his first smile since graduation. Is Betsy Ewell still working at Erickson's?

Sharon: Yes. I heard that Susan Morgan and George MacEachern finally got a raise at D'Amato's.

Pete: Jerry Nolan really hit the big time. He owns a tuna fish submarine sandwich factory and his chicken of the sea is Chrys Funder. Ray Bombardier is doing pretty well, too. He's now head chef at the Waldorf, and John Wieliczki is the Pizza King at the "Oasis."

Sharon: Bill Butler is proud of his new job and he's bragging about it to John Corbett, a rich Boston dentist. Bill is working as a butler for the Rockefeller family of New York.

Pete: Bill Hirt, the mechanic at Adley's, is over inspecting Jim MacKay's display on New England geology. He looks dissappointed because there's no gold.

Sharon: Pete, did you know that Claudia Anderson designed the '74 Sting Ray?

Pete: No, but look who just bombed in—'64's addition to the Fenderbenders, John Dennison, Dave Frazier, Dana Goodspeed, Robert Landry, Gordon Frazier, Robert Williamson, John Flanagan, and their mascot, Julie Fader.

Sharon: Bob Hutcheon, Ambassador to Germany, should be here any minute with his private secretary, Barbara Books. Speaking of secretaries, isn't Sue Orcutt the President's special secretary on Physical Fitness?

Pete: That's what I heard. Ours is a great athletic class. Paul Johnson and John Little tied for first place in the P.G.A. and the U.S. Open. Mike Wallent is playing on the Celtics and Louise Price is the team's mascot. Don Loud and Carlo Villa are playing for the Patriots this year.

Sharon: I never realized that Veronica McCarthy was so "Loud," maybe from cheering the star halfback on the Pats.

Pete: Could be. Perhaps you know that the majorettes who perform during halftime include Judy Sargeant, Carol Johnstone, and Jackie Lotti.

Sharon: Jimmy Fitzpatrick and Jim Muelhen were representing the U.S. in the summer Olympics in San Francisco. I also think that Janet Sniger is star fullback on the South African Fjeld Hockey Team.

Pete: I saw Dorinda Wilson, Eunice Manduca, and Gail Podrecca ride up on their horses a few minutes ago. They are now jockies at the Kentucky Downs. What's all the excitement over by the windows?

Sharon: As far as I can see, Suzanne Johnson, Donna Rhodes, MaryAnn Kotapski, and Norma Cushing are surrounded by Walter Delaney, Charles Osborne, Joe Nadolny, Ken Robbins and Norris Roy, proving the fact that gentlemen prefer blondes.

Pete: Quite a number of the class of '64 has returned to its old alma mater. Roy Fowler is the head custodian, and Pete Zagarella, Joanne Pring, and Pauline Theall are now teachers.

Sharon: Denise O'Brien seems to be arguing with her favorite old teacher, Mr. Paster, who came to see his great first string of 1964. Pam Wright told me she'd be late. She decided to go to a Whitman dance before coming here.

Pete: Linda "Dear Abby" Hanrahan is having an earnest discussion with Joanne Babcock and Gerry Creuta, who are in charge of a detective agency.

Sharon: As detectives they'd better watch "Twinkletoes" Gauley. He seems to be bothering the famous birdwatchers, Larry Cutler and Dave Kauppenin.

Pete: Is that Dick Skillings?

Sharon: Yes, He's now a physics professor at M.I.T. I think that he's trying to explain the operation of the I.B.M. machine he invented to Judy Morris, but she seems more interested in Susan Philbrick, who just drove up from Greenwich Village with the Broadway actress, Karen Rutledge.

Pete: Sandy Moran, heiress to a linoleum business, is being entertained by Kathy Cheverie and Diane Manning, professional punkins. And there's John Cull practicing the Morse code with Dick Carnes, his fellow ham radio operator.

Sharon: It's really been nice seeing everyone again! I hope we can all make the twenty-fifth reunion in 1989. Where do you think it will be held?

Pete: I heard that we might have it in Billy Orcutt and Gail Burn's Flower Shop. That certainly would be interesting!

The Class of 1964

We, the class of Nineteen Hundred and Sixty Four, being of sound mind and body, do hereby attest this to be our last will and testament.

1. To Mrs. Lee, we leave a pen that writes A's and I's.
2. In fond memory of the old high school, we leave Mrs. Trask two pieces of sandpaper to scrape profanity off the cafeteria tables.
3. John Souza and Lee Bombardier leave Mr. Divoll a Goldwater Sticker.
4. To "Pop" Dennis we leave a box of exploding cigars.
5. We leave Mr. Myers a tube of Brylcream for his cowlick, in hopes that he will become a two dab man.
6. Walter Delaney leaves all the freshman girls with broken hearts.
7. To the lunch staff we leave Betty Crocker's 1001 Ways to Cook Hamburg, and a gold plated can opener.
8. Instead of a gavel, Jerry Von, our illustrious president, leaves a pair of "tweezers" to Ed Fopiano.
9. Denise O'Brien leaves Mr. Paster a one-way ticket to Southeast Cupcake.
10. Ralph Hamlin leaves Bob Bancroft a copy of the current best-seller, How To Break An Arm Patting Your Own Back.
11. Susan Philbrick leaves her mother to the present freshman class.
12. The senior class leaves Mrs. Rosen a portable "Keep-Right" sign for the second floor corridor.
13. We leave the Abhis as the biggest bomb since the Sophomore Hop.
14. Mike Wallent leaves a few inches to Teddy Southwell.
15. The senior girls leave Mr. Callahan, regretfully.
16. "Gypsy Rose" Connelly leaves her thought for the day, "Let Me Entertain You."
17. We leave Miss Murphy and Miss Gearin as co-captains of next year's cheerleaders.
18. Ray Bombardier leaves his appetite to Jeff Coad.

Last Will and Testament

19. "Baby Face" Hoyle leaves, still trying to beat Joyce Jackson at arm wrestling.
20. Due to our lack of money and our deep concern for Mr. Paolini's lack of hair, the senior class leaves Mr. Paolini a bottle of glue and the sweepings from Ray's Barber Shop.
21. Members of the Punkin Club leave Mr. Comeau a pumpkin.
22. Pete Trenouth leaves his wit to anyone who can take it.
23. At last, the senior girls leave their favorite lunch table to the freshman boys.
24. To Cynthia Smith we leave a life's subscription to Vogue and a bicycle pump.
25. Charlie Collins leaves his Playboy magazine to the school library.
26. We leave Mr. Keenan reciting a poem about "Lazy Lips."
27. The senior class leaves the junior girls up for grabs.
28. Bobby Moore leaves his tarnished halo to Joel Donovan.
29. Eunice Manduca leaves all her teachers sighing with relief.
30. The Driver Education class (all of it) leaves Mr. Gervais some well deserved free afternoons.
31. We leave Miss Francis selling her home-made stink bombs to Dennis Cifelli.
32. We leave Miss Crooks still laughing at Mr. Paster, Mr. Bawden, and Mr. Hartwell—at least she can turn out an undefeated team.
33. Chrys Funder leaves her silence to Connie Marley.
34. The senior girls leave certain freshman girls: A.) material for widening and lengthening skirts, and B). a permanent excuse for absence from school.
35. The staff of the 1964 Green Years leaves a horseshoe and a rabbit's foot to the 1965 staff.
36. Finally, we the class of 1964 leave Abington High School.

UNDER CLASS MEN

A line drawing of a person crouching and holding up the letter 'C' of the word 'CLASS'. The person is positioned below the word 'UNDER' and to the left of the word 'CLASS'. They are holding the letter 'C' with both hands, as if supporting it. The drawing is simple, with no facial features or clothing details.

None of us will ever forget the day of November 22, 1963, for the assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy was the first national tragedy we had experienced. Too young to remember a war or the death of a president, we, perhaps more than adults, felt the shock, fear, and sorrow that came with a break in the order of things.

For some of us, the grief was compounded, for we mourned not only a national leader but also a man to whom we felt close. But whether our sorrow was personal or not, whether the man's policies had coincided with our own convictions or not, all of us profoundly wished that the trip to Dallas had never been made.

However, a truth that we must never allow to be obscured had been revealed: extremism has no place in a democracy. There is no room in America for prejudice, hate, and lies. Once an atmosphere of violence and irrationality is created, violent and irrational deeds follow. It should not have taken a death to teach us this, but since it has, let us learn the lesson well.

Let us remove any personal prejudice or bias. Let us remember our responsibilities as well as our privileges. Only a few of us will enter the field of government or the peace corps, but all of us can and must be well-informed, educated, conscientious citizens. John Kennedy was a young president with great faith in this nation's youth. Let us show by assuming the task of building an America of which he would be proud, that his faith was not unfounded. Let us build an improved America, with no traces of hate and bigotry.

And if the way is difficult, as it is sure to be, let us remember Robert Frost's lines, which were among the president's favorites:

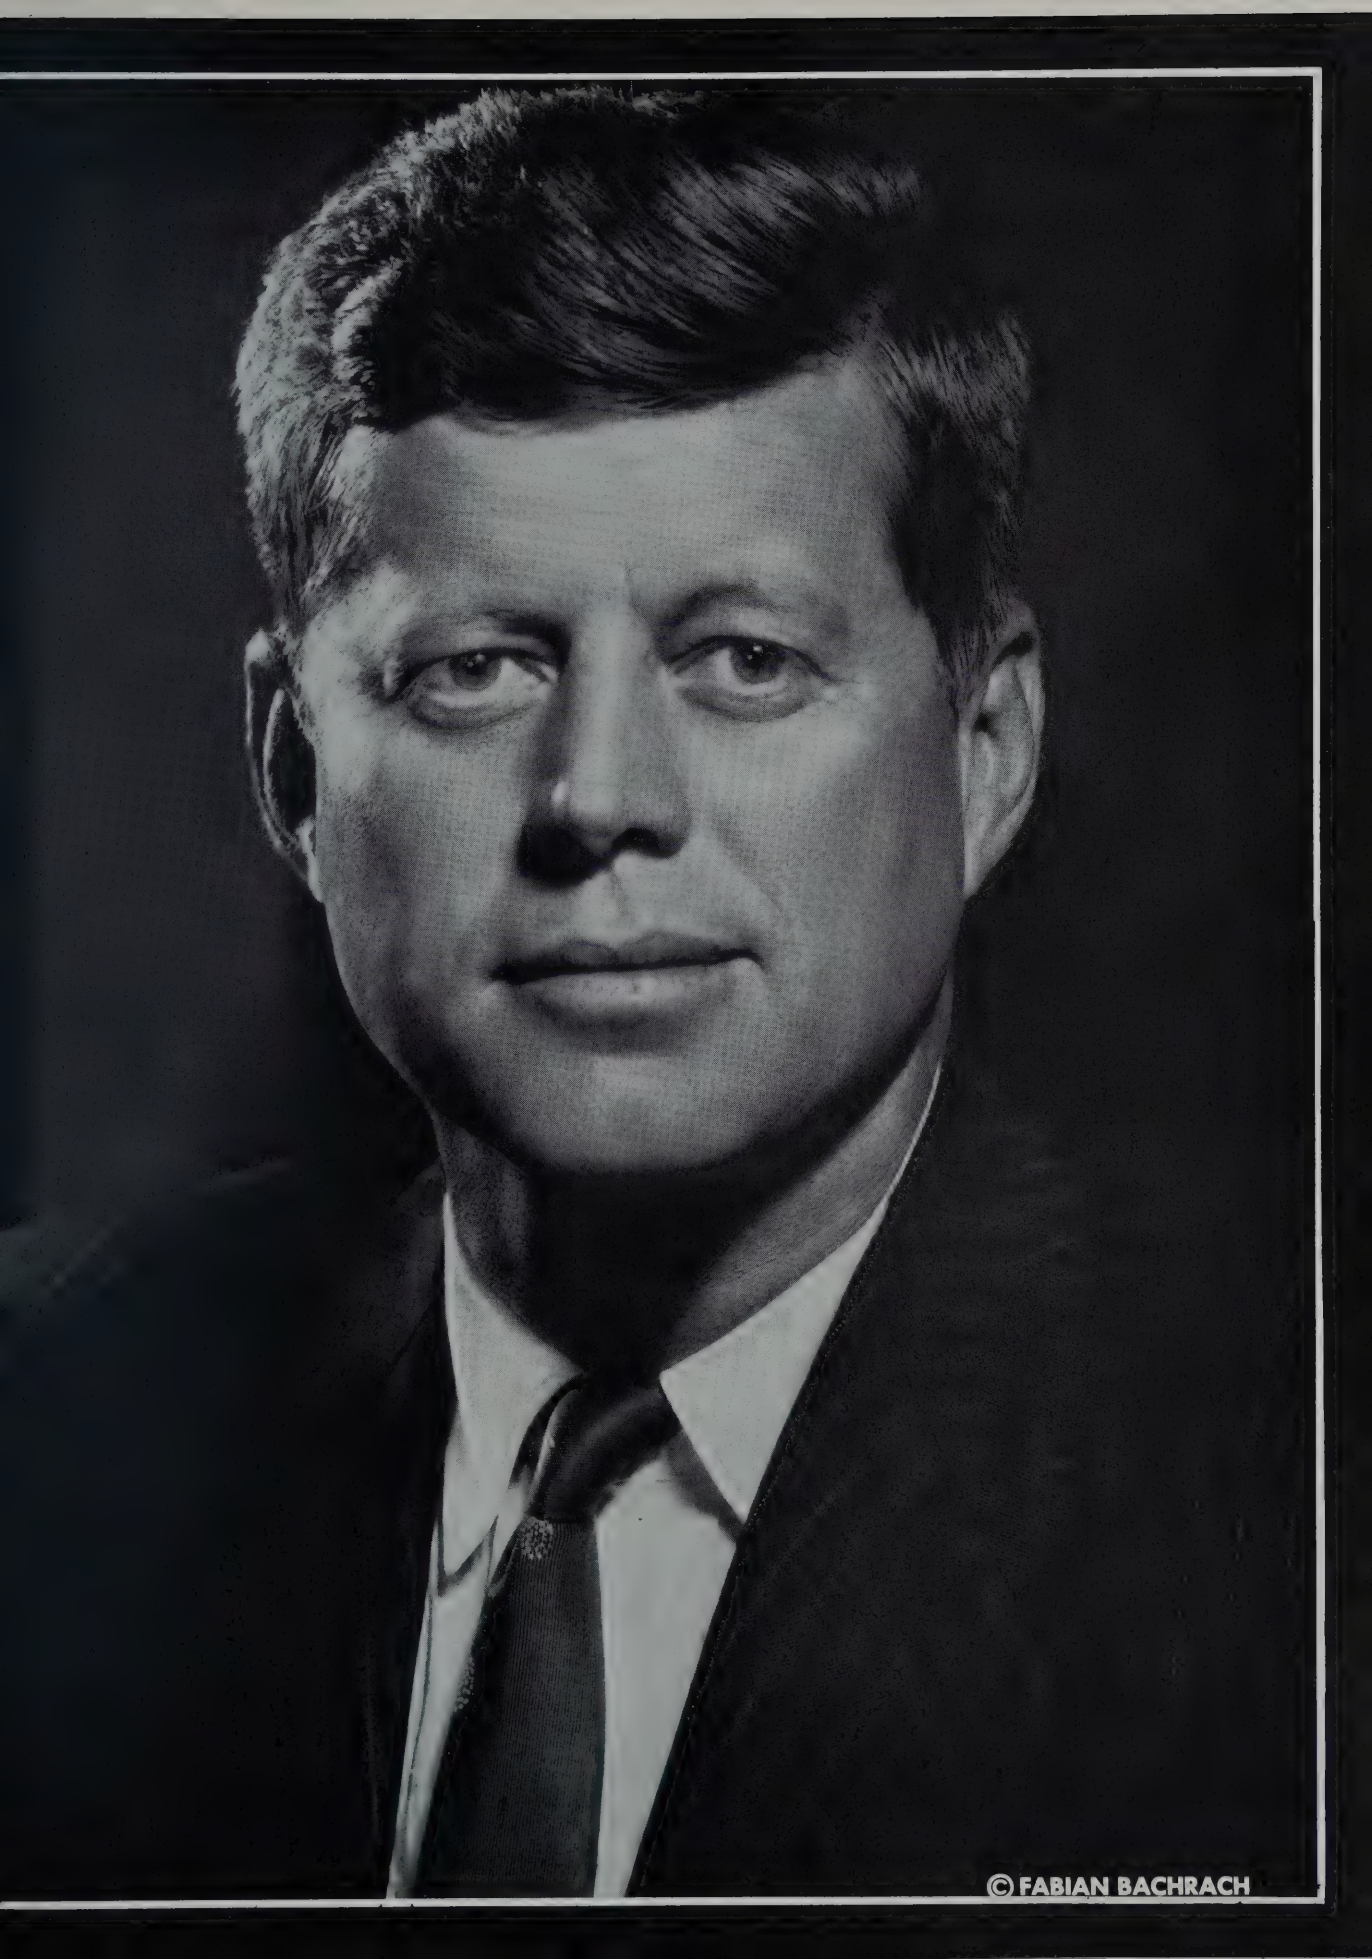

"The woods are lovely, dark and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep."
